SERIOUS FLOOD IN THE ARKANSAS RIVER VALLEY

Thousands of Fertile Acres Are Under Water and Crops Ruined.

WASHOUTS ON RAILWAYS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 6 .- One of the worst floods ever experienced in the gree. Arkansas river valley is threatened, and the situation to-night in the lowlands is serious. At Little Rock the river registers 25.4 feet, or one and two-fifths feet above the danger line, and the prediction is that a maximum stage of twenty-seven feet will be reached to-morrow. No danger is apprehended here, but many valuable river bottom plantations are already submerged. In most instances the crops will be a failure, and it will be too late to replant.

Reports from Fort Smith are that the river has reached a stage of thirty-two Fort Smith is twenty-two feet, and this point was passed early yesterday. A thirty-four-foot stage is expected. More than 1,000 acres of land near Fort Smith are under water and great damage is being

Many families have been driven from their homes in the lowlands and many farmers in the inundated sections will be in destitute circumstances, as their crops will

Yesterday the city was practically shut off from railroad communication with the world on account of the floods. Washouts have occurred on several of the railroads and the 'Frisco has been unable to get a train out south of Fort Smith.

AFFIDAVIT BY W. LUCE

Says the Woman Had Letter Which Young, Who Was Shot in Cab, Tried to Obtain.

NEW YORK, June 6 .- Coroner Nicholas Brown is trying to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Frank T. Young. the wealthy bookmaker. Young was shot on Saturday last while on his way in a cab to a steamship pier to sail for Europe with his wife. With him was Mrs. Nan Patterson, formerly an actress, whom Young had known for several years. Mrs. Patterson was held without bail by the coroner and was locked up in the Tombs prison. An effort was made to secure her release to-day, but it failed. The police at first believed that Young killed himself, but various circumstances caused them to change this opinion, and to-day the detectives in charge of the investigation said they were sure Young's wound was not self-inflicted. The entire vision of law no mailable matter may be case may center about the revolver with which Young was killed. Six detectives have been at work on this feature of the county newspapers, which under the law case since Young's death was first discovered. Friends of Young say he never carried a revolver.

It was the corener's intention to begin hearing the case to-day, and Mrs. Patterson was brought to his office. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. J. Morgan Smith, and seemed much more composed than she was on Saturday, but she was very pale. She was represented by five at- postmaster general: "Under the law, rural torneys. this investigation is being conducted," said Attorney Levy, for Mrs. Patterson, "is entirely inadequate, and I am satisfied that I could obtain this woman's release by a writ of habeas corpus from the Supreme Coroner Brown then announced that he would adjourn the case until Friday and fixed bail at $5,000. Mr. Levy said he would endeavor to get the bail. Later District Attorney Jerome declared he would oppose the release of Mrs. Patterson on bail. He went to the office of coroner Brown and served notice that in the event of bondsmen appearing with bail he would want to be heard in opposition to its acceptance. "This is a case," said he, "in which the coroner has no right to accept bail. I shall oppose the release of this woman, no matter what amount of bail is

It transpired that this action by Mr. Jerome was due to the fact that he has in possession an affidavit of William Luce, brother-in-law of Young, in which Luce declares that on Friday evening Young told him that he was going out to see Mrs. Patterson. "He asked me to go with him," the affidavit says, "saying, "The little woman has some letters which I must get from her. I'm afraid of her, and I don't know but what she might kill me. I'm through with her. I intend to break it off

Luce went with him and met Mrs. Patteron, and the three remained together until 3 o'clock Saturday morning. Mrs. Patterson did not have the letters with her, however, and, according to Luce, it was for this reason that Young telephoned her to meet him on Saturday, asking her to bring the letters with her. Mrs. Patterson was taken back to the rombs this afternoon. Her father and mother, who came here from Washington, called at the Criminal Court building this morning. They had visited the girl, but beyond expressing their belief in her innocence declined to discuss the case. The coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy on Young's body, said to-day that he saw no reason why the bullet wound that caused the man's death could not have been self-inflicted, especially if the trigger had been pulled with the thumb.

Pieces of the epidermis removed from two ingers of the right hand of the dead man for close examination were pitted as if with powder, although it was not clearly evident from a hasty inspection that the marks were made by powder. On application of counsel for Mrs. Patterson, Justice Clark of the Supreme Court this afternoon issued a writ of habeas corpus requiring the production in court of Mrs. Patterson, and also a writ of certiorari on Coroner Brown to make a return of the record in the case. Both writs are

THOUGHT SHE WAS BEING BITTEN BY RABID DOGS

Life of Girl Who Had Taken Morphine.

Vivian Howard, the young woman who attempted to end her life by taking morphine at 538 East Court street Saturday night, is now fully recovered, and to friends

She stated that she purchased 25 cer worth of morphine and after writing two letters prepared to take it. Opening the package she selected the largest lump, which she swallowed with difficulty. It was so bitter that she could not endure the thought of swallowing more of the poison in that form, and, determining to take A naval board, headed by Rear Admiral | what she thought would be enough, hit upon an unusual expedient. Taking the oiled papers from two sticks of chewing gum she wrapped up two other lumps of the poison and swallowed them, paper and all. Then she returned to her letter writ-

She felt herself getting dizzy and sleepy; and says that she could have called for help if she had cared to. Thinking herself to be dying, she leaned back in her chair and waited for the end. The first thing she had any recollection of when conse began to return was that some one was pinching her. Years ago she was bitten by greatly frightened if any one attempts to pinch her. While under the influence of the morphine she imagined that she was being bitten by dogs, and her fright, keeping her from sinking into a deep sleep,
